What could Adelaide do to set it apart from other interstate or international mountain biking destinations?

If you already use the mountain bike trails in the Adelaide Hills, which do you like best and why?

What do you think could be done to encourage more people to use Adelaide mountain bike trails? For example, adding connecting trails, making more downhill trails, adding more family-friendly trails, holding mountain biking events, providing easy bike hire, adding more technical features like obstacles, etc.

Is there anything in particular that you think would make interstate and overseas mountain bikers want to ride in the Adelaide Hills?

If you have been to other mountain biking destinations interstate or overseas, what did you most enjoy about them?

Is there anything you have seen in other mountain bike destinations that you would like to see in the Adelaide Hills?

Any other comments?

Thank you for your feedback.
