

South Australian Aboriginal Engagement Reform 2019-2020 Flyer

The Aboriginal Engagement Reform initiative is about enhancing relationships between the South Australian Government and the Aboriginal community of South Australia.

As Commissioner for Aboriginal Engagement, the Premier has commissioned me to undertake state-wide consultations and seek the views of the wider South Australian Aboriginal community about a recommended engagement model for South Australia.

The model seeks to:

- improve government engagement with Aboriginal people
- ensure the views of Aboriginal people are represented in government decision making
- make recommendations regarding improved partnerships between government and the Aboriginal community of South Australia.

Once I have sought the views of the Aboriginal community, I will present a report to the Premier for Cabinet.

I encourage all Aboriginal people, communities and organisations to share their views by attending a consultation session or providing written feedback on the recommended model.

Dr Roger Thomas
Commissioner for Aboriginal Engagement

Government of
South Australia

South Australian Aboriginal Engagement Reform 2019-2020

Timeline

August - October 2019	November 2019	January - June 2020	July 2020
State-wide consultations open until 25 October	Report due to the Premier for Cabinet	Implementation of approved recommendations Membership announced	New body established

Have your say

Until 25 October 2019, Aboriginal South Australians will have a range of opportunities to participate in the conversation about the recommended engagement model.

Attend a consultation

The Commissioner for Aboriginal Engagement will visit many sites across South Australia, leading consultation with as many Aboriginal people, organisations and representatives, over the next three months.

To attend, arrange a meeting, or to request more information, contact his office.

Provide written feedback

Feedback forms will be provided at all consultation meetings and are available on the website. Alternatively, submit your feedback online. Detailed written submissions are also welcome and can be emailed.
